

New Gary Danko Restaurant at Ghirardelli Square

The photo above is a view of the new Gary Danko restaurant, still under construction as of March 2009 at Ghirardelli Square. The photo shows (courtesy of the restaurant's website) the 2nd Gary Danko from Ghirardelli Square's fountain plaza (behind the red walls will be an outdoor seating) area that will spill into the plaza area. The upper deck will be a private area for the apartment residences.

These photos show a sneak peek at one of the most heavily anticipated restaurants of 2009 Gary Danko's second restaurant. The 120-seat American brasserie and seafood bar is still slated to arrive in the summer and sits in the ground floor of Ghirardelli Square's Mustard (building), with a patio currently behind the red plywood walls spilling into the fountain plaza.